Pioneering Excellence in Veterinary & Dairy Sciences: A Legacy Since the Pre-Independence Era

Lala Lajpat Rai University of Veterinary and Animal Sciences (LUVAS), Hisar, stands at the forefront of livestock research, dairy technology and agricultural innovation in Bharat. Tracing its illustrious roots to the oldest veterinary institution of the pre-independence era (originally established in 1882), the institution has anchored Bharat's livestock revolution from Hisar since 1948.

Building upon a prestigious legacy of more than 50 years as a premier Veterinary College, it was elevated to an independent statutory university in 2010 by the Government of Haryana. Today, through its flagship College of Veterinary Sciences and College of Dairy Science and Technology, LUVAS serves as the academic, research and extension nerve centre for Haryana and adjoining states - empowering rural economies, advancing dairy processing technologies and nurturing high-yielding germplasm in the heartland of Bharat's dairy belt.

A Landmark Venue & Unmatched Industry Convergence

For the 2026 edition, the LUVAS Dairy Expo moves to the university's expansive, state-of-the-art New Campus in Hisar, spread over 1100 acres. Designed with modern exhibition infrastructure and seamless logistics, the new campus offers corporate exhibitors, equipment manufacturers and agribusinesses an expansive platform for live machinery demonstrations, product launches and B2B/B2C networking.

Organised in strategic co-ordination with various Departments of Government of Haryana, this flagship two-day mega event on December 16–17, 2026, will witness a massive turnout of thousands of progressive dairy farmers, commercial dairy farm owners, milk cooperative unions, dairy processors, FPOs, scientists and policymakers from across Haryana, Punjab, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and Delhi-NCR.
